Family/Matrimonial Law

The break-up of a marriage or relationship is a difficult time for everyone, especially where there are children involved.

We at Ken MacDonald & Co are dedicated to providing a sensitive, effective and efficient service for our clients in this delicate area. We deal with all aspects of family and child law; from separation to divorce, Adoption to contact and residence disputes, matrimonial interdicts to aliment, we can help.

For couples separating with property in joint names our property service can assist once agreement is reached on the division/transfer.

As always we offer a free no obligation first consultation. If we can help we will advise you immediately. In the event that we are unable to, we shall refer you to the colleague best suited to your needs.

We cover both Stornoway and Lochmaddy sheriff courts, and work is carried out on both a private client basis and under the civil legal aid scheme. For anyone wishing to apply for legal aid, when attending our office, please take with you two sources of identification along with documentary evidence of your income and capital.

Anyone requiring assistance in this area should contact our Miss MacIver who shall be happy to assist.

For anyone seeking counselling, mediation or use of the local contact centre then we would highly recommend you contact the Western Isles Counselling and Family Mediation service. They represent a good first port of call in the event that you wish to avoid court proceedings. We can draft any agreement reached there into a formal separation agreement.
